In Healing the Soul, psychosynthesis therapist and counseling astrologer Mark Jones delivers one of the most fascinating astrological studies of this decade. Taking us on a journey into the karmic underpinnings of the birth chart, this book provides tools for understanding the hidden forces driving not only our personality, but our soul. Jones outlines a method that anyone can use to learn more about the unconscious dynamics that drive us. The beginner will find this a useful reference text and the expert will enjoy the detailed chart explanations. For the professional astrologer, this book provides the tools necessary for incorporating this method into any current framework. Based on ten years of in-depth client study, Healing the Soul offers profound insight into the powerful soul dynamics that shape our experience. Its triumph is that it teaches us how to identify and transform powerful internal conflicts and feelings while acknowledging our regenerative capacity for spiritual healing and soul evolution. The aim of this book is to introduce students of astrology to an approach that will make horoscopy's conventional techniques useful to those who come to astrology looking for spiritual guidance. This is not about learning a new astrological language, but rather how to give a different application to the familiar techniques of Western horoscopy. Understanding the natal chart is recommended to complete beginners, those wishing to structure patchy knowledge, and those already competent in horoscopy who are in search of a more esoteric approach to see the way forward. The northern Moon Node is the message from above when you go back to earth to be born again. This message is a goal, a life destiny, to accomplish. It is the most important thing in your life. It is blown deep inside in your heart by the angels above. To accomplish your life destination a predestined script lays on your plate. This is not a rigid script. The unfolding lays in your own hands. In childhood you do your best to live according to the message of the northern Moon node. Somewhere between your sixth and thirty sixth year you give it up by lack of results. You forget about it. Instead you adapt to the world and you follow the rules of the culture. Fifteen or thirty years later a discontent sets in. In this crisis you remember again the message you got from above. You adjust your life and you swap again to the northern Moon node. This script is explained as the system of Carteret. Astrology is, at its root, intimately tied to the development and evolution of human spiritual understanding. It is a living tool, adapting to the culture it finds itself in, in order to best serve the people who use it. Our orientation to the sky represents how we understand ourselves as human beings, our power and our potential. Astrology has been made stronger and been expanded on by every culture and religion, ancient, historical, or contemporary. Whether past, present, or future, when we practice astrology, we are part of them all. One of the key concepts of the 11th century Sufi mystic and astrologer Ibn' Arabi, was what he called 'The Magnificent Breath'. Arabi believed that we are the breath of the divine. He said that every emotion, fear, longing, or elation that we feel is another way that the creator knows itself more fully. And if we had not been there to experience that exact feeling, then that breath could not be complete without us. What Arabi called God, was actually an energy that lived, breathed, was strengthened, and grew through our lived human experience. What we call God is the entirety, and the best that humanity can be. What Arabi called God, I came to call Love and Wisdom. The planets speak to what we want, why we want it, and how we go about getting it. Additionally, all planets have nodes. The nodes are not physical bodies in the sky, but are considered chart points representing key moments on the orbital path on the ecliptic for that planet. Symbolically, we have come to understand the nodes as speaking to the higher, spiritual intention of that planet. The Moon represents what we need to be at peace with ourselves. The Moon is how we go about seeking and reaching emotional equilibrium. The Nodes of the Moon are the most widely used planetary nodes in astrology. The Moon is the conscious part of us that has learned, through demonstration and nurturance, what home and comfort looks and feels like. But the nodes of the Moon are more profound. They speak to how it is that the Moon desires to align us with a wise and loving Universe. It is as if the ancients understood that honoring the higher intention of the part of us that seeks peace, is a powerful pathway towards honoring the spiritual intuition of this lifetime, which is always to embody Love and Wisdom, more and more fully. Written with Nadiya's encouraging and spiritual approach on each page, The Universe is Wise and Loving roots you in an understanding of the Nodes as guide posts on your journey towards greater love and greater wisdom. We will go through the sign/house placement of your Nodes in the first part, and then we will go through each of the planets and Chiron, to explore aspects to the nodes, whether natally or by transit. Find her online at nadiyashah.com This in-depth work describes the system of Carteret, how you receive a life purpose, the northern Moon node, from the celestial guides before you get on the earthly plane, and how this message works throughout your life in a sequence of 7 year cycles. Your life purpose is a result of your past life experiences, the southern Moon node. In your youth you get disappointed in your life purpose and abandon it. For two 7 year cycles you trust on your southern Moon node qualities to keep your head up. After that and after you cracked Pluto you start to live up to your original life purpose again. Together with your divine intuition, the black Moon Lilith, everyone is able to reach completeness for eternity. The Moon's nodes are explained in a very practical way -in the houses and in conjunction aspect- so that everyone can discern their own life destination and the phase they are in. This book is full of information you cannot find from other sources, and will be of interest to beginners and practicing astrologers alike. It was written after 15 years of investigation and experience. Sebastian van Wingerden describes a lot of past life session and angels experiences in his rich practice of hypnotherapist to illustrate the working of the Moon nodes. The Moon's north node in the horoscope is a powerful indicator of our life purpose. This book provides a fascinating background story for the life path in the natal chart. The north node in each of the 12 houses is described in detail with case histories from reincarnation sessions with actual clients. More than 200 pages are devoted to the northern Moon node in the houses. The next nearly 100 pages give interpretations for the planets Mercury through Pluto and the luminaries (the Sun and Moon) when in conjunction with the northern Moon node. Conjunctions are the most powerful aspects in any chart and are the simplest aspects for a beginner to identify. The introductory chapters of this book are an added bonus. The chart reading system of French philosopher Jean Carteret is described in detail. Carteret proposed the use of six spiritual points which together help to delineate the soul's purpose on Earth. Carteret is not known to have written down any of his ideas. The Moon's nodes and the Black Moon Lilith are included among Carteret's six spiritual points. Through hypnotic regression of clients, Wingerden gained great insight into the soul's journey between lives and how each lifetime is arranged to obtain specific benefits. The first 100 pages of this book are devoted to describing how reincarnation works. Wingerden goes into the timeline calculations for the entire lifespan as defined by the progressive new and full moons. The concept of cracking Pluto is also mentioned as part of Carteret's system of interpretation. This portion of the book will be of greater interest to the professional astrologer as it uses more technically-advanced methods. One of the most fascinating features of this book is the detailed stories of past lives which Wingerden has uncovered during client sessions using hypnotic regression techniques. Possibly the most controversial idea presented by Wingerden concerns retrograde Mercury and reincarnation refusal. This portion of the book highlights the long-term effects that severe abuse and trauma can have on the evolving soul. This book about the northern Moon node is the foundation of Wingerden's trilogy, which also includes a book about cracking Pluto and another about the Black Moon Lilith. Together these three books expose Carteret's astrological system in a way that is not easily found elsewhere. Wingerden's trilogy provides a solid foundation for an in-depth psychological reading of any birth chart. In the year 2017 he has published his book Cracking Pluto and in the year 2018 his book about the black Moon Lilith will shine its light to complete his trilogy about the system of Carteret. Science of Astrology: X-rays of The Divine* has been written to provide readers with a general foundation in astrology and to address subject matter which is either absent or given insufficient coverage elsewhere; meanwhile explanations of rulership, exaltation and debility are excluded here, not least because the more elaborate parts of these systems seem to have been established rather arbitrarily. An understanding all of the technical explanations in this book is not required to have a good understanding of astrology; at the same time the mathematics used to illustrate physical laws here is not exhaustive. In Science of Astrology: X-rays of The Divine, the traditional system of horoscope construction is acknowledged and explained; however a new system of horoscope construction is introduced – one which represents the ecliptic in the form it takes independently of the Earth's daily motion, at the same time as accommodating the season and standpoint of the observation. According to the new system, a new system of house distribution has been devised and ascendant and descendant points are given to the Moon. The new system, expounded in the chapter Mapping the Zodiac is intended to exist alongside the traditional system; however for simplicity it is used independently throughout the book. Other original subject matter in this book includes the incorporation of childhood location changes into the horoscope and the role of orbital resonance in informing planetary aspects. Science of Astrology: X-rays of The Divine begins with an explanation of the basic physical laws of the solar system which is intended to help enthusiasts adopt a more scientific approach to the study of astrology; the research presented towards the end of the book is intended to impress upon sceptics the value of the horoscope as a signifier of natural phenomena. Although the ephemeral conditions of meteor and extreme weather events are notable for their singularity rather than for any features which can be specifically attributed to the phenomena they accompany, there are certain astrological features which are distinctly recognisable among recorded cases of earthquake activity and it is possible that astrology will eventually form a part of preventative strategies in this field. Research is also presented which concerns the relationship between IQ and the planet Mercury. Just as for disciples of psychology or genetics the ardent practitioner of astrology is prone to adopting a two-dimensional view of his or her subject; as the practitioner become more calculating, they also become less amenable to other manifestations of truth. Clearly, to understand human nature and to render a true service to humanity, the practitioner must adopt a holistic view. The book is named Science of Astrology: X-rays of The Divine because just as how an x-ray reveals the skeleton of an organism, so astrology reveals the bare outline of God's design. And just as how too much exposure to x-rays imperils the health of the organism, so can too great a study of this outline make the practitioner oblivious to the manifestations of the living God – that which exists beyond the dead indices of the celestial bodies. Hermes Trismegistus recognised the relationship between terrestrial events and the configuration of celestial objects and sought to render certain influences more enduring by soliciting their investment in inanimate objects. These objects were then assumed to promulgate the conditions extant at their inception. Part of Science of Astrology: X-rays of the Divine is concerned with the establishment of rituals, or active prayers, designed to ameliorate or relieve constitutional weakness or tension. Illness often has its origin in bad habits so by staging a ritual for a moment which is fortuitous to the individual, the individual can be emboldened to enact the necessary abnegation. If a ritual, be it direct naturopathic intervention or abstention from unhealthy practices, is staged to coincide with ephemeral conditions which offer reinforcement or stability to weaker or unstable elements of the constitution – upon interaction with the nativity, the ritual becomes as a talisman and reinforces the assimilation of the lesson prefigured by the ritual. Of course, the moment will be special whether or not it is deliberately ascribed ritual significance, but by consciously assigning an appropriate ritual to a fortuitous moment, the exertions of the intellect can be aligned to the exertions of the will. The eclipse is viewed as part of a sequence. Its initial influences are described along with the meanings of the solar & lunar eclipses in the signs & houses, & their aspects to the planets. The author covers the meaning of the Moon's Nodes & the importance of the eclipses when falling on any of the four angles. Her delineation techniques are clearly explained. George White, founding member of the London Astrological Research Society, was a pioneer in the use and delineation of the Moon's Nodes, as well as the Nodes of the other planets. The Moon's Nodes, originally published in London in 1927, describes the Nodes and how they are related to physical stature, fame and success. The author also gives detailed information concerning the part the Nodes play in relation to the signs and houses, as well as aspects to the Nodes from other planets. He cites numerous examples. Included in this definitive work is a chapter on eclipses and their effect on natal horoscopes. Joseph Campbell advised everyone to live authentically by following our bliss, but how many of us do? Whenever anything goes wrong in life, a person wants to revert to the South Node position where he is safe & secure. A complete Nodal analysis with aspects, transits to the nodes & synastry between charts. Ancient myths describe an eclipse as the Sun or Moon being swallowed by a dragon. Since an eclipse could only occur near the lunar nodes, these became the head and tail of the dragon. Older references and eastern astrology still call the Moon's North Node the Dragon's Head and the South Node the Dragon's Tail. The Node Book goes beyond detailed information about the Moon's Nodes in signs and houses. Also included are chapters focused on the planetary nodes of Mercury, Venus, Mars, Jupiter, Saturn, Uranus, and Pluto, and the nodes of the four main asteroids: Ceres, Vesta, Juno, and Pallas. Extensive tables and directions for their use make it easy to find the nodes for the planets and asteroids. A sensitive and spiritual look at the way the energy of the nodal axis, Rahu and Ketu affects your life and how you can use it for better self-understanding. Both of the seminars in this book address the theme of 'orientation', offering the reader a profound but accessible interpretation of the structure and the 'spinal column' of the horoscope. The four angles - Ascendant, Descendant, MC and IC - reflect the horizon and meridian at the moment of birth, and symbolise the 'cross of matter' into which we are born. They describe our participation in external reality, and also clarify how the subtle patterns of belief, attitude and circumstance affect our inner sense of orientation. Each angle is described separately, in terms of the element and mode, and the meaning of the houses which flank it. Transits are also considered, and there is a guided imagery process where the individual horoscope placements are explored. The axis of the Moon's Nodes represents an arc of meaning along which the activities of 'being' and 'doing' are balanced, over and over again. Our ability to let go of the past is tested, and we embrace the future from the vantage point of the eternal 'now'. This section reviews familiar material, and also offers a number of approaches to the Nodes which the reader will not find elsewhere. There is a review of the Nodes as placed in the six pairs of opposite signs, plus a questionnaire for readers to consider their own Nodes. This book includes astronomical and psychological material, presented in a lively seminar format which will expand the understanding of beginners and experienced astrologers alike. Cal explores the role of the moon as it manifests in the different signs and houses, as well as its relationship to the other planets in the chart. Practicing Western astrologer Agneta Borstein uses an East-West astrological approach to the lunar nodes, their role in synastry, and their importance in the process of the evolving soul. In addition, her familiarity with the Vedic system and its mythology brings a unique perspective to her interpretation of the nodes. This is a revised and expanded edition of The Moon's Nodes. A Churning Process of the Soul first published in 2004 expands on the nodes in synastry and their roles in our relationships. It presents the Hindu myths related to the nodes with an emphasis on the goddesses as consorts to the male deities and how their stories connect to the Lunar nodes. Borstein presents the fundamental facts about the Moon's Nodes and includes a discussion of the True and Mean Node and information on the nodal cycle in transit, natal signs and houses of the nodes and their meaning, especially in how to move from the wounded soul, represented by the South Node, to higher consciousness, represented by the North Node. Includes a fascinating synastry study of Angelina, our modern day goddess, and her consort Brad Pitt with an interpretation of the ties that knot them together. Most astrologers recognize the Bowl - one of seven horoscope patterns popularized by Marc Edmund Jones. Many are also familiar with Pamela Crane's concept of the Draconic chart, wherein the lunar nodes provide a benchmark for assessing individual karma. By merging both principles, we can identify a unique shape - the Draconic Bowl - where the nodal axis forms the rim of the bowl, and the seven visible planets are bound to one side of that axis. By applying core principles drawn from traditional astrology - Eastern and Western - the author explores the consequences of this powerful esoteric pattern, illustrated with 36 notable natiivities. When considering only the visible planets, approximately 12.5% of us have a Draconic Bowl in our charts. Among famous people, the Draconic Bowl club includes some of the most outstanding artists, athletes, criminals, intellectuals, musicians, politicians and writers of history. Among astrologers alone, the alumni includes: John Addey, Olivia Barclay, Robert DeLuce, Louis DeWohl, Zipporah Dobyns, Michael Erlewine, Demetra George, Dennis Harness, Marc Edmund Jones, Anthony Louis, Michael Lutin, Alan Oken, Joni Patry, Erin Sullivan, and Alfred Witte. Independent of charts exhibiting a Draconic Bowl, this book also provides an exhaustive interpretation of what it means to have the nodal axis in any given pair of houses around the chart. As such, it is an invaluable reference work for any astrologer, at whatever level of expertise, who has struggled to understand the consequences of the moon's nodes, whether they be karmic or mundane.
